FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

MONDAY, May 27-6 P. M. The railway share market was heavy and dull this norming, but during the afternoon it developed an imeing very shight, however. The bank statement was enstroyed enfavorably, and the demand for money was generally reported more active at six per cent than last week. The Sub-Treasury has, nevertheless, been dis-bursing more freely to-day than of late, and its balance ng is down to $128,654,731, against $128,697,996 cent on mixed collaterals and five on government securi-ties there is a superabindance of capital available for speculative uses, and it is to the interest of the Treasury o keep monetary affairs at this centre as easy one. It is clear, however, from recent experience, at an easy money market, together with the prospect continued case for a series of months to come, is not itself sufficient to inspire confidence in values and of market in a public to say stocks, even when present when the public is composed to a larger extent than would be generally admitted of "marrow-minded block-each," who have neither the sagacity nor the courage of decide for themselves in financial or other questions specing the course of the markets. Hence, when Mr. ffecting the course of the markets. Hence, when Mr. Icculiech made his Fort Wayne speech, the great asjority of people were, unfortunately for the prosperity of the country, foolish enough not only to believe what he said, but to magnify the moort of his words into threatening proportions, here was not wanting, at the same time, a wast host of ears in all the markets to intensify these fears of a tidespread revulsion from interested motives. The sears in all the markets to intensity these fears of a widespread revulsion from interested motives. The bears made it their business to creak, and the creaking has been both loud and long.

The Port Wayne speech was followed by letters and reports in which the same talk about a speedy resump-tion of specie payments was indulged in, and the time for the event to take place actually fixed in one of the has mentioned. The creakers were jubilant, and they creaked louder than ever before. The commonplace mass of humanity before referred to became still more issued, and resolved to take in more sail and keep as enog as possible. Enterprise was accordingly dwarfed, prosperity interrupted and stagnation and depression gradually threw their blighting influence over the land. The volume of legal tendor notes was being and four millions a month afterwards. Subsequently to this Mr. McCulloch availed himself of the full authority of the act, and, besides, offered inducements which resulted in the funding of compound interest notes at a sapid rate. As the latter were held by the banks as a art of their reserve the effect was felt almost as much as they had been United States notes. Another element se simultaneously at work absorbing the currency, mely, the South; and here was the equivalent of con-solies on a large scale. When we add to all this the at work to produce depression. People at length find themselves impoverished and their taxpaying power correspondingly reduced. The financial policy of the country has been bad and inconsistent. Con-gress has saddled burden after burden upon fraction of the currency had been avoided if the con-fraction of the currency had been less rapid, the false propectes of a speedy resumption of specie payments left unnitiered, and our system of taxation less oppres-sive. No wonder the income tax this year is likely to yield so little and that the bears on the stock exchange rest so confidently under the protection of "Mr. McCulloch's policy," and that they have successful.

There is very little doing in the discount line, and the bost grade of commercial paper passes at 6% a 7 per cent, but inferior grades are not in favor at the banks, ewing to a certain distrust of credits consequent upon the prolonged depression in business and the losses which have been thereby sustained.

"Speaking of wine," and an intelligent mountaineer, as we were crossing the Alleghanics, "do you know that when the report of an inevitable repture between France and Pruesia came along over the wires there was a panie among the woodmen of these mountains, from Cumberland to Grafton, and that the price of staves and all sorts of coopers' stuff went down?"

"Quite true, and a very pretty illustration of the fact, this binding, under the same hoope, the product of the American Alleghanies and the vineyards of France and Spain. But what sort of coal is this they are digging out of these nill sides around Grafton."

"He is what they call gas coal, the real bituminous—excellent for gas. The Cumberland is a sort of semi-bituminous coal, and is better for steam engines. We have a great country; but its resources will never be comprehended until we have a bundred millions of people. All through these mountain regions, from Fennily vania down to Georgia, see want population to bring out the wealth in the soil, and yet thousands aro starving in your great seaboard cities for want of employment. A system of emigration companies, combining capitalists and New York, for example, of mineral country of the people along this road, through its whole extent, seem to be, in the mass, the poorest of the poor, especially the poor overworked, aunburnt and apparently half famished women, that look wistfully from this distribution of the poor women have to work night and day. But these people have mostly something laid up in a savings bank, upon which they inteed to draw by-and-by for the purpose of bringing over from the old sod the rest of the family. You will have observed that there are very few negroes among these mountains. The negro, especially the emanicipated engre, lacily as always deed to the family. THE RECENT TRAGEDY IN BROOKLYN.

Inquest on the Body of Wm. Blahop CarrInteresting Testimeny Elicited, &c.
An inquest was commenced yesterday afternoon at the county Court House, before Coroner Lynch, on the body of William Blahop Carr, who was killed in Gold street on the morning of the 21st inst. Great interest was manifested in the proceedings, the room in which the examination took place being crowded to excess.
Skidmore, who was present, appeared perfectly cool and at ease, and bore the scrutinizing glances of the curious with the utmost equanimity. But at times, despite this outward exhibition of self-complacency of demeanor, his face would flush and his countenance assume a momentary cast of uncasiness and disquietude.

"No, sir; nor can I understand why such a panic should follow such news. The manufacture of flour harrels, one would suppose, would be brisk with the approach of the wheat harvest whatever might be the quarrels of Bismarck and Napoleon, and doubless all this coopers' stuff from these mountains goes down to Baltimore and Georgetown to be worked up into flour berrels."

"You are mistaken, sir. The thousands of woodmen all along the line of the railroad over these mountains, engaged in working up the hardy white oaks of these forests into staves are working for the European market. The wines of France and Spain are now put into casks made from these white oak staves, the very wood they want. They are shipped over in the rough, and the casks are made near the vineyards. You will now understand why a few sharp words between Bismarck and doceased.
